Ship Lines Say Foreign Rivalry Forces Pay Cut

American Vessels Cannot Com pete if Present Scale Is Maintained, Association Holds The American Steamship Owners' As sociation yesterday issued a statemen intended to show that unless marin engineers accept lower wages Ameri can ships will be unable to compete with foreign vessels. The statemenwas taken to indicate what the attitude of the owners will be when they meet Tuesday at the Whitehall Club, 17 Battery Place, to consider the demand by the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Asby the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association, that the existing scale be maintained. The operators have already proposed a 20 to 30 per cent reduction in pay.

"Nearly one-half of the steel steamers of the United States Shipping Board are now laid up in idleness," the statement reads, "while probably about one-fourth of the privately owned ton-age of American ocean companies is also unemployed.

"This is due in part to world-wide financial and trade conditions, affecting every maritime country, and in part to the difficulty met by American ships in competition with more cheaply manned vessels of other nations, in a time of stress like this, when a few cents an hour determine whether an American ressel or a foreign vessel secures a given cargo."

In the World of Shipping

Lack of assurance that the Shipping Board does not intend to allow its tonnage to be used in direct competition with privately owned American shipping on routes where the supply of vessels is already more than adequate for the cargo offering, is a matter for grave concern among American ship owners.

French Line might quote, no matter how low. Such a policy, American shipping men point out, has not only intensified the losses of the board's vessels, but it has formed a competitive element which has told heavily against American privately controlled tonnage in the same trades.

This concern has been manifested from time to time for months past, and it is manifested again in the plan submitted by a committee of the American Steamship Owners' Association for bare-boat charter of the Shipping Board's vessels, to supplant the present system of allocation. Adoption of a bare-boat plan would assure to the board a definite return from its tonnage, instead of the present purely speculative system in which the board takes all the risk of loss, and under which a constant deficit is being rolled up.

Bare-Boat Plan Beneficial

The bare-boat plan presented provides that the board shall not operate, allocate or assign any of its vessels in competition with the charterers of its tonnage and shall extend "the fullest possible protection to companies already owning American vessels, such trades in which they are already established or who now express a willingness to meet the requirements with their own tonnage or any Shipping Board bare-boat chartered tonnage."

Freight Situation Quiet

British vessels can be operated on a considerably lower cost basis than American, but the disastrous effect of the disastrous effect of the disastrous effect of the rate war is shown by the fact that one of the leading English lines withder we completely from the Franco-American trade rather than sustain the losses consequent upon operation.

Developments of the past week in shipping have not been especially encouraging. Strong opposition on the part of the marine engineers to any reduction in the scale of pay, with the attendant threats of strike action, may be followed by a similar attitude on the part of the representatives of the seams of the British workers to strike in sympathy with the coal miners in a development, however, that may not be without its effect on labor here and districtly lessens the likelihood of a world strike on the part of ship labor on May I. Present ipdications are that the British seamen will agree to a reduction in pay, recognizing that with freights far below the war level
